There is not a man who has followed the case who does not believe Jake Sharp to be guilty of the crime of which he has been convicted. He had overy opport tunity to defend himself that a well filled pocket book affords. He fought hard against his fate, but the jury convicted him and the court sentenced him to the penitentiary. His counsel kept up a defanalve fire, and now a higher court gives

In New York it is noticed that women are drifting more and more into going to public resorts without male eccorts. Why not? Wherever a woman may go with propriety she should be able to go by herself or with others of her sex. She should no longer be reduced to having to wait for an secort or stay at home. She is not in danger of being attacked by Indians, wolves or bears, and the brigands who hover on the borders of civilization to steal beauty for a ransom are not often met with in our populous communities.

It should be as safe for women to go to the theatre or elsewhere without male escort as though supported by a brigade of cavalry. In the main it is so, and if the women will lusist that it shall always be so, public opinion and the police will see that the right of well behaved women to go where they please at all times is not interfered with. The women have the club in their own hands.

Down in Mississippi two passengers on a Pallman car desired to retire earlier than the porter thought advisable. Possibly he wanted to force out of them a retainer before striking them for the customary fee in the morning. At all events the poster relused to make up the borths for the passengers when they wanted him to do it, and they sat up all night.

Although at present loca On a railroad not more than a thousand miles from Wheeling the writer had a little experience rather different from that of the Mienissippi travelers, but quite as exasperating. Long before he desired to rise the porter aroused him with the information that it was "time to git up."

The passenger said he differed with the porter to the extent of about two hours, and he did not wish to be disturbed. Soon the porter came egain, remarking that "now it is line to git up sho' nough." He explained that his time for making up and out. Whether a jury would have thought that worth $750, cannot be said, but so great a strain on a man's more character is worth some compensation.

The sleeping car companies have been show to realize that they sustain any solbstantial relations to passengers beyond charging them roundly for what they get and making them pay the greater part of the compensation of porters. Travelors have stood this with a pationce which does them little credit. Now there is a growing revolt, and it promises to force much needed reform.

The surviving Ansrchists are not satisfied. They want more. But we think it is not blood they want so much as money. The hanging of four of the Haymarket murderers and imprisonment of three has impressed with two heacens serious fands.

These men have concluded that there is not sufficient reason for them to pay for the privilege of gotting drawn into escapes with the possibility of heins nulled out of the mative of the half of the mating up to the privilege of gotting drawn into escapes.

Some of them, too, have realized that however desirable and profitable a state of anarchy might be, the big majority is on the other side, and that this same majority contains men as brave as Anarchists are desperate.

But men who have been living by etirring up other men will not pin themselves down to hard work without a struggle. They will issue more proclamations in the hope of drawing outmore money. If they mean anything more serious, that is bad for them. If they have tasted blood, the police have tasted law, and that was bad for the Anarchists.

Then one of the girls tells us the bath is ready. We undress and pull on a robe. A girl shows us the bath room. It is down stairs, and has only a Japaneso screen to shut off the gaze of the habitues of the bouse. The tab is a round wooden vat about four feet deep. You put your foot in to try the temperature. The foot at once takes the hue of a boiled lobster. You nearly shriek. The girl laughs and empties a pail of cold water in it. You then wait for her to go out. She does not budge. You can't to save you think of Japaneee enough to tell her to git. Finally, by a lot of awkward signs, you get her beyond the screen. But not an inch tuther. There she stands and waits, as innocently as did good old Eve when Adam poured into her willing ears his first declaration of nudying affection.

There are things that try men's souls and call for heroic course. Ooc canecale the bristling wall, can march into the mouth of a hot-threated cannon, can mount the eactfold with the shining axe glistening in the sun, can tell the girl he loves how he would win and wed her. can Finally patience gives out, you drop your robe and itump in. Good heavens, the pail of cold water did cool the thing, but the furnace is still adding caloric. You feel much as did the poor Japanese martyrs when, a few hundred years ago, the heathen wretches boiled them into grease. You forget the girl and everything eise, and jump out thoroughly clothed, i. e., clothed in scarlet skin. Ah, these are things which try men's souls.
